

Chile

Chile has the largest regional disparities among OECD countries when it comes to environment: the Magallanes y Antártica region ranks in the top 5% of OECD regions, while Tarapacá is in the bottom 20%. Antofagasta is the best among Chilean regions in education and access to services, but the worst in health and housing. The metropolitan region of Santiago ranks the highest among Chilean regions only in income.

Relative performance of Chilean regions by well-being dimensions

Note: Relative ranking of the regions with the best and worst outcomes in the 9 well-being dimensions, with respect to all 362 OECD regions. The nine dimensions are ordered by decreasing regional disparities in the country. Each well-being dimension is measured by the indicators in the table below.

The high performing Chilean regions fare better than the OECD average in all of the well-being indicators except for income, the number of rooms per person, the share of households with access to a broadband connection and life expectancy at birth.

How do the top and bottom regions in Chile fare on the well-being indicators?
